Special Election for Debt Exclusion

MILLBURY - A special election for a Proposition 2 1/2 debt exclusion for the sewer line project for Grafton Street will be held Tuesday, July 28. The polls will be open from noon until 8:00 p.m.

The last day to register at the Town Clerk's office to vote in the election is July 8. The office will be open from 9 a.m. to 10:00 p.m. on the 8th. Registrations can also be made any day during regular business hours, 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Absentee ballots are available now and any time up to the day of the election.

The ballot question will read as follows: "Shall the Town of Millbury be allowed to exempt from the provisions of Proposition Two and One-Half, so-called, the amounts required to pay for the bond issued for the cost of engineering services for plans and specifications and the cost of construction for sewage systems and appurtenant works on Grafton Street from Carousel Drive to the Millbury/Grafton Town Line?"

If voters approve the debt exclusion, it is estimated that property taxes would increase 35 cents per $1,000 of valuation. On a home assessed at $100,000, that would mean an increase of $35.00 per year. The tax increase would cease once the bond is paid off. This amount will not be added to the tax levy limit, which is the amount of taxes that the town can raise under Proposition 2 1/2.

special needs student in the school system. The child was inadvertently locked in a school van in the maintenance garage at the high school before she was found by one of the maintenance employees.

Mrs. Block said she was present not to blame the bus driver, but to find out how this could have happened. She explained that when her daughter did not show up at the house at her regular time, she called the Elmwood Street School to speak with Principal Kelton Johnson. Johnson was at a meeting with the Superintendent and was unavailable. "I called some of the parents," Block said, "and I wasn't able to get contact with them. That's when I called the Police Department who found Mr. Johnson. The reason I tried to call Mr. Johnson, is that I know there isn't any C.B. on that school bus. For some reason, that bus was never equipped with a C.B. radio when it was put on the road in February. The previous bus was equipped with one. This is one of two buses that I know of that doesn't have a C.B. on it in the whole fleet in Millbury that transports kids."

Sutton's own All-American

By Alec G. Belisle

SUTTON - Sutton can be very proud of Steve Nault, son of Phyllis and Jim Nault of Heritage Road, for he has not only been chosen a National Collegiate All Conference All American in rugby but has also been chosen from among all of the rugby players in the United States to be a member of the prestigious 20 man team which will tour Canada. Nault, who graduated from Framingham State College with a degree in Earth Science education, is about to leave for Edmonton Canada where he will play against the under 21 National Canadian Team.

This honor is particularly noteworthy because Nault, like most Americans, had little experience growing up with rugby. It is not a sport, like baseball and soccer, in which children begin developing the fundamentals at an early age. In fact, Nault was only introduced to the sport as a freshman at Framingham State College. "I wanted to get involved in some activities, and I had friends who played rugby," Nault said. But being on the rugby team does not always offer the same recognition and advantages as other sports. Rugby at Framingham State is played on the club level, and as a result, "We couldn't even use the athletic facilities or the training room because we were a club and not a school sponsored sport," Nault said. Members of the team even had to buy their own rolls of tape to take care of their injuries.

Nault was captain of his team last year, capping his four year career. He was chosen a member of the USA East Collegiate All Star team, a team made up of the best players in the Eastern Union Division which is comprised of teams from the entire East Coast. "There are a lot of rugby teams in the east," Nault said, "because rugby is a sport that is most likely to be played at private academies and there are quite a few in the east." Nault joined 28 other players from Bowdoin, BU, BC, Harvard, LSU, Georgia, and others, all Division I teams. He was the only player chosen from a Division II college for the honor.

These Eastern Rugby Union All Stars met June 19-21 to play the All Stars from the Midwest, West, and Pacific Coast Unions to determine the NCAC champions and to compete in the All American Trials. Though Nault's team did not win, his play earned him the distinction of being selected as one of the 30 All American players. But his accomplishments did not end there for from these 30 ALL Americans, only 20 were chosen to represent the United States against other international teams. Nault received this honor, unfortunately, on the day of his graduation from Framingham State, which he had to miss.

While most of us will be enjoying the 4th of July holiday at barbecues and cookouts, Nault, accompanied by his family, will be in Edmonton, Alberta Canada. There he will be competing against a very strong Canadian team. Whatever the outcome, we are certain that Nault and the other American players will demonstrate the spirit of 1776.

Dream Flight

Nicholas Hall of Millbury with WXLO traffic reporter Roger X.

MILLBURY - Nicholas Hall, a 4th grader at Assumption School, wrote a letter to WXLO Radio after hearing that some lucky individual would get to fly with Roger X, the station's traffic reporter. In his letter, Nicholas talked about his dream of becoming a pilot.

WXLO talked to Nicholas on the air about his letter, and the next day he was invited to fly in a Cessna with his mom, Doreen, along for the flight.

The plane flew over Nicholas' house and Millbury center, providing some great photo opportunities, including the shot above.

Parents complain over school bus incident

By Edward J. Cooney

MILLBURY - The School Committee held a public meeting on July 25 following a closed door meeting with the Millbury Teachers Association bargaining team who have been meeting over the past three months without a successful resolution to an agreement on a new contract. It was noted by the Chairman Chet Hanratty several weeks ago that there are no monies in the budget for raises for teachers for FY 92-93.

The Committee listened to a complaint from Gloria and Richard Block of Jonathan Drive concerning a situation that Mrs. Block described as traumatic for their daughter, a

HERE... THERE... EVERYWHERE Bits 'n Pieces

... Joe Morin

No news announcement has affected me more than the one which read, "St. Joseph's Church to Close!" It struck many of us like a bolt of lightning...disbelief, shocking. Since the announcement, I have made several trips back "home" to St. Joe's to look, to admire, to reflect, to pray, to give thanks. A lot of memories flashed back in my mind, and, with your permission, I would like to share some of them with you.

Thirty or so years have passed since I left "home." Please bear with me if I err with names, dates, etc.

First Friday Masses, Les Enfants de Marie, Les Croissess, Les Croissillions, Les Dames de Ste. Anne, Month of Mary Devotions, the Passion Play, Vespers, First Communion, Confirmation, Le Coeur de Chant, turkey baskets, our Sisters of St. Anne, those good priests who served our parish...and the yearly "mission program" where the missionary father would make an appearance for a week or so; one week for the adults, a few days for we young'uns...memories, memories.

Remember when the sermons were given both in English and French? Try that today. Don't think it would go over big with the "new" generation.

TO LOOK BACK, to reminisce, is it wrong? I think not. My church, through the actions, advice, counseling, examples of its priests and religious, molded many of us into what we believe in today. It was through their examples, love and dedication that St. Joe's is what it is today. And we mustn't forget the contributions of our parents and grandparents who paid the bills, also. Truly dedicated men and women, first class parishioners, christians. "Qui laetificat, Juventutem Meam!" "I will go unto the altar of my youth to Praise My God."

I guess memories would start from the altar of God, where many of us served as altar boys under the direction of the then Joe Loisel. The Solemn High Mass! What beauty, what reverence, so meaningful. God was present; we felt it. Credo in Unum Dominum!

MY SPIRITUAL HOME...MY ROOTS...MY CHURCH! Such pleasant experiences...First Communion, altar server, solemn high mass, we called it Diacre, Sous-Diacre in those days, we see the procession of the altar boys coming in rows from each side of the main altar...two by two, bowing, genuflecting. "Ad Deum Qui Laetificat." We approach the altar of god, the joy of our youth.

There was Joe Loisel, in charge of the group, the incense. "Credo in unum dominum." The Mass was sung by all present, the church vibrated, sanctus sanctus.

Msgr. Ducharme, Fr. Gerald Durocher, Fr. Montcalm, Fr. Eugene Guerin, Fr. Belec...God be with them, all! Richard Fortin, Romeo Brooks, priests in their own right today. Their thoughts must go back, now and then, as altar servers, their start, their beginnings. St. Joe's was instrumental in the formation of many of today's priests and religious. We thank the Lord.

LA MESSE DE MINUIT. Now there was a midnight mass. At the stroke of midnight, the organ and the choir exploded in unison: Minuit Chretien...! Est Ne le Divin Enfant.

In those times, many of us weren't wealthy but we all managed to get by somehow, and we all know who and what carried us through these times: our church, our faith.

VESPERS...now that was a long ordeal, especially for we young'uns at the time. All altar servers had to be there by 2:30 p.m. Vespers, we can still picture Msgr. Ducharme across from us in his chair, slowly but surely closing his eyes. Contemplating? No, he was on the verge of dozing off. We knew that, we altar boys never missed a thing. Lord, was that service long. Thought it would never end.

The good Sisters of St. Anne, now they were the real McCosys when it came to teaching, discipline. That we had more of them today.

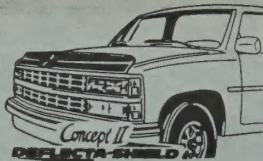

FIRST FRIDAYS, fasting, we had to fast Friday midnight until after Communion the next morning. There were a lot of stomachs "grumbling" during Mass due to starvation. We had little sandwiches with us to bring back to school; that with a carton of milk held us over until noon.

HOW MANY remember the "crown" we wore in school during Lent? Every time we attended Mass, a star was added to the crown. And those charts we had in front of our desks, which kept track of our "department" during class? Every time we talked, or did some "babinage" out of turn, we were asked to lower the arrow, in increments of 10; it was set at 100. Somehow, I never could leave it at that 100. I never got any higher than 50. But I had a lot of company.

"Je Suis Croisee" - Now that one we just didn't forget. "C'est pas ma faute, c'est Maxima, qui ma mit la!" You know, I don't remember Soeur Marie Maxima, but we all knew that little ditty of a tune.

Remember the schoolyard, with the "Garcons" on one side, the "Fillles" on the other, and never the twain dare meet, because you had a good sister on patrol watching every move you made? Just try to cross over the line to the "Fillles" section; pow!

How many Thanksgiving baskets did our parents put together to raise funds for the school! Crepe paper, baskets loaded with food; all to be raffled off. Remember the Bond bread wrappers we used to save for the school? Sr. Mary Frances Alice, her sister, Sr. Irene, Sister Columban, and the one and only Sr. Marie John Regis, now there was a fighter, she had a mean "right hook. But we loved them, and, more importantly, we respected them all; and our parents backed 'em up to the hilt. Sr. Columban was a "cutie," a beautiful smile.

LES CROISSILLON...LES CROISEE, now that was an organization of little ones who were always present and ready to process during all the Feast Days at St. Joe's with little capes, hats, gloves. What a procession, the altar boys, the Croisee and the Croissillions. Too bad we didn't have camcorders way back when. And one item you certainly remember...les "claquettes." Remember them? One clap for kneeling, two for standing, sitting just followed, I think. Confession on Saturday afternoon was a must; what long lines. How many Hail Mary's were given out as penances? And how about the gals? They had their Enfants de Marie organization. What with their veils, they certainly looked angelic. The Crowning of the Virgin in May was another event in our spiritual life growing up at St. Joe's. So many memories, so many beautiful ceremonies, so many good and dedicated religious, priests. Dare we forget them? Dare we wipe out all those beautiful thoughts, memories? J'amaiz! Never! We must look to the future, yet take one day at a time.

THAT OLD CRANK PHONOGRAPH - remember that one? Time for exercise, mes enfants. The good sister would crank it up, place the needle on the record, time for our daily exercise. Our arms would swing up and down, sideways, over our heads in step and cadence with the "Marche Militaire!"

That was the extent of our physical training of the day. And remember when a visiting nun or priest would visit the class, knock on the door, and all in unison would stand and recite "Bonjour, ma soeur, soyez bienvenue. Oh, when the pastor made his annual visit we really let loose. And when they all left, the chant was "Au revoir, Mon Pere. Merci. And once in a great while, we would get a "congee," the day off. Mercie, mon Pere.

To this day, we still wonder in amazement at all the "stuff" the good sisters would carry in those long, deep pockets of theirs. I'm telling you, they came out with claquettes, rulers, lollipops, scissors, tape; a walking hardware store. Speaking of rulers, when you got zapped with a ruler, you felt it.

How many of you remember Homer Collette in front of the church on Sundays, selling the T&G? He was faithful, you could always count on him. Strange, isn't it? We can remember back 30 to 40 years and not remember things that happened as early as yesterday.

We certainly hope that this looking back article brought pleasant memories for some. Msgr. Ducharme's words in 1942 are still apropos today as they were many years ago: "Parishioners of Saint Joseph, my brothers! Remain attached to your church, to your parish. It is your house, it is the work of your hands, it is your protection. You should love coming here to share, along with your prayers and your hymns, your joys, your sorrows, and your immortal hopes."

It has been voiced by some members of the clergy, theologians, that the Church was wrong in emphasizing church buildings with all the statuary, stained glass windows, marble and gold, and not really pointing out that the "people" make up the church. Okay, try dismantling St. Peter's in Rome, Notre Dame in Paris, St. Patrick's in New York, St. Paul's in Worcester; see how far you get.

We have a treasure here on Hamilton Street in Worcester. Your house, our house, we were always welcomed. Oh, maybe once in a great while some of us wandered away, but we came back. We knew that Your door was always open. May the spirit and love that is St. Joe's remain now and forever.

From My Window on Farnsworth Court

By "Pastor Rae" Cameron

Well, now it is settled: no more prayers at graduation ceremonies, at least no more prayers to God. I am bewildered by what they mean by a "secular prayer." I guess it's a prayer to be heard only by the secular and not by God. Our thanks to our local school board and administration for their invitations to the clergy to be a part of graduations in the past.

As we celebrate our Independence Day, we are grateful for a nation that sometimes believes in the separation of church and state. But that is separation of church AND state, not church FROM state and likewise state FROM church or either from God.

To better understand the New Testament, it is helpful to understand that there was a prevailing philosophy in those times called "Gnosticism." Its basic tenet was that there was a separation between that which is spiritual and that which is physical or secular. The spiritual is the totally good and the secular is the totally evil. The incarnation of God in human form in His Son, Jesus Christ, was the contradiction of gnosticism. The spiritual had become physical and had made even the secular to become good. God's Spirit could now inhabit human beings by a new birth by which we could also be called the sons of God.

The New York State Board of Education sent out a memo that no teacher was to teach his or her faith. I am sure that what they meant was not to propagate any one organized religious system of beliefs. But on the other hand, how does one teach without some kind of faith? Teachers not only give out certain facts to their pupils, but they also give of themselves, and that is where faith comes in. God bless them. Amen.

Residents of the Greenwood Street area complained of truck traffic, mainly from the Granger-Lynch Company on McCracken Road, and sought help from the town at a selectmen's meeting in May.

Mrs. Block said the only reason she was given that there was no C.B. on the bus was that there was no place to put it. She said the problem would not have occurred if there was a CB in place. She also said that school officials were told that the bus had no CB many months ago and nothing was done about it. Mrs. Block told the committee they have no idea what this incident has put her daughter and her family through. "She has a fear of school buses and she doesn't want to be left alone in the dark again," she said.

Superintendent Alfred Sylvia said he had no good explanation for what happened and noted that a CB has now been installed in that bus. "There should have been a C.B. on the bus," he said. He then offered his apology to the Blocks for what happened.

Hanratty asked for a detailed report of the incident.

An angry Richard Block said he was very upset and remarked that there is a lack of management of town affairs. "You were made aware of the lack of a C.B. radio in that bus back in February," he said. "There is no excuse for there not being a C.B. radio on that bus. I get the feeling there are good people in town but there is a lack of management. Management is totally responsible. Kindergarten and preschool children should be monitored. Why isn't this being done," he asked.

"You are absolutely right," Hanratty said to Block. "It is ultimately our responsibility and we will find out why it was not done. We will go into that report when it comes back to us." Hanratty asked Business Manager Sue Pierce what happened to the school bus monitor for those students.

Pierce replied that normally there isn't a monitor. "One was hired for a few days a week, and she was not on long. It wasn't until last week that I became aware she was not working as there's no record of her leaving."

School Committeewoman Jane Pojani remarked that she was never told about the lack of a CB on the special needs bus nor about the incident with the Block child.

Mr. Block told the committee that his family has suffered a lot of grief since they were not sure that their daughter had not been picked up off the street until she was brought home at 4:45 p.m. "We had no idea where she was," he said.

Hanratty offered his apologies to the Blocks and told them, "The Committee is looking into where it fell down."

Sue Pierce, who is responsible for bus transportation, said that in February when the new bus came in there was no room in the bus driver's area to locate the C.B. radio that was taken out of the old bus. She said she asked the maintenance department to install the CB but it was never done. "It's my fault," she said. "Basically, that is the story."

Later in the meeting, Pojani's request that a letter of apology be sent to the Blocks was agreed upon by her colleagues. She also asked that all Committee members be kept up to date and informed, "as the Chairman has been," on serious issues such as this. She noted that she was not told of the incident involving the Block's child until this June 23 and the incident occurred June 17.

Committee members Barbara Tuttle and Tom Clawson supported Pojani's request, and Clawson suggested all committee members be informed within 24 hours of serious incidents.

Hanratty concurred and asked Sylvia to implement the suggestion.

Permanent Substitute

The Committee approved a recommendation by Sylvia and High School Principal Dan Carmody for a permanent substitute for grade seven. Carmody said the present grade six has discipline problems and that without an additional teacher, "we would be looking for trouble" since the class size in the grade seven team would be increased. It also was noted that one of the team teachers, Mrs. Welenz will be on leave. The addition of a permanent substitute would bring the number of teachers for the grade seven team from 5 up to 7 as grade six teacher Donald Dufault will also be moved up to grade seven from grade six.

In answer to a question from School Committee member Jane Pojani on where the money will come from, Sylvia said that Welenz and Mrs. Schroeder have leave time and funds saved there would help defray the cost.

The Committee also approved a strong recommendation from Sylvia and Assistant Superintendent Richard Palermo to appoint Maribeth Valendri to a special needs position at the primary level. Sylvia said there were many applicants but Valendri was more experienced with the type of needs these students have. The position will pay a first step salary of $23,735 and is covered by federal funds.

Lack of Communication

The Committee listened to complaints from team teachers in the seventh and eighth grades concerning a lack of communication from administration over room changes for teams next year.

Teacher Anna Lewandowski said the teachers were told to change their rooms in order to have grade seven students at one end of the corridor and grade eight students at the other end. They were also told there would be a room retro-fitted to allow for a second science lab to keep the classes separate to some extent. It was noted that this past school year when classes changed periods, there was disarray in the corridors.

She explained that the teachers have carried all their belongings and equipment and materials to the proposed rooms and now have been told they have to move them back because there is no money for renovations required for the added science lab. She also noted this was discussed several months ago and now at this late date the teachers have to move back.

Lewandowski also said that with the advent of increased student population at the grade seven level, if the proposed changes do not go through there will be even more disarray.

Millbury Teachers Association President Tom Murray said the teachers are now out of school and asked how everything would be moved back.

Sylvia said the custodial staff will move the materials back to the previous classrooms. He also said he was just asked recently by Principal Carmody to take a look at the proposed science classroom. Upon looking at what would be required to install all utilities and a chemical drain in the cement floor, he concluded there would not be enough money in the budget to do that work now.

The committee asked Sylvia to get an estimate of the costs involved as well as a cost for a portable lab that was suggested by Susan Varin, a science teacher and a team member.

Moore Seeks Re-Election

UXBRIDGE - Representative Richard T. Moore (D-Uxbridge) has announced his intention to seek a ninth term in the Massachusetts House representing the towns of Sutton, Douglas, Millville, Uxbridge, and Webster.

In announcing his candidacy, Moore highlighted his leadership on the House Ways and Means Committee in helping to resolve the state's fiscal crisis, his active role as Chairman of the Legislature's Committee on Election Laws to achieve accountable politics and campaign finance reform, and his record as an outspoken critic of excessive state spending and tax hikes. He said that he was advocating change in government long before it was the "politically correct" position. Moore said he has a lengthy record of "performance, not empty promises or half-baked ideas," which spans his years of legislative service. Among his accomplishments for the town of Sutton, Moore listed:

- Supported application for new school construction funds.
- Secured over $142,000 for Manchaug "New Village" sewer system.
- Sponsored legislation to permit "recall" by-law for Sutton.
- Secured $20,000 to help restore Lake Singletary.
- Sponsored legislation to prohibit nude dancing in Wilkin-sonville.
- Initiated effort for safety improvement of Route 146 - Boston Rd. intersection.
- Supported effort to resurface "M" Route (Singletary Rd. Boston Rd. Putnam Hill Rd.).
- Helped Sutton secure funds for Shared Town Planner.
- Sponsored legislation to designate "Dudley-Gendron Square."
- Provided leadership that led to the reconstruction of Route 146 as a safer four lane, limited access highway.
- Currently leading efforts to construct a Route 146/Mass Pike Connector and better access to Worcester.
- Supported efforts to assist Waters Farm Restoration with funding from Massachusetts Preservation Projects Fund and Blackstone River Valley National Heritage Corridor.
- Coordinated efforts of Sutton Public Safety officials and the Department of Environmental Management to improve safety at Purgatory Chasm.
- Assisted efforts to preserve FreeGrace Marble Farm.
- Led efforts to repair Lackey Dam Bridge on the Uxbridge-Sutton line.

Among his goals at the state level in the next term, Moore listed: 1. Continued progress to control the state budget; 2. efforts to promote jobs and economic growth; 3. meaningful education reform; and 4. programs to encourage those who receive state assistance such as welfare or scholarships to give something back through public service or payroll deductions when they get a job.

As a member of the Local Government Advisory Commission, he said he is also working to provide an adequate and predictable level of local aid for the cities and towns. Moore's agenda for change to benefit the people of his district is, in his words, "ambitious, but attainable."

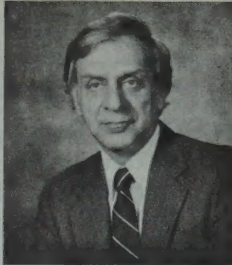

As Chairman of the Route 146 Citizens Advisory Committee, he said he will continue to work to expedite the Route 146/Mass Pike Interchange that will bring jobs and economic growth to Central Massachusetts. He said he also wants to work to help the area towns prepare for growth, and views the Blackstone River Valley National Heritage Corridor Commission, on which he serves, as a key to protecting the region's quality of life.

Moore also listed efforts to provide more accessible higher education programs in Southern Worcester County, improved safety at Purgatory Chasm Reservation, development of a greenway park along the French River in Webster, and opposition to the development of a commercial landfill in Douglas among his priorities in the next two years.

Moore said he has been in the forefront of legislative efforts affecting local government, especially efforts to limit or restrict unfunded state mandates, and legislation to benefit

Kollios Seeks Re-Election

MILLBURY - Representative Paul Kollios (D-Millbury) has announced his candidacy for re-election to represent the towns of Auburn, Millbury, and Oxford.

In making his announcement, Kollios said he said he will "continue to advocate for job creation, education reform, the delivery of efficient state services and further political reforms. I am proud to have led the successful fights for the Route 146/Mass Turnpike connector and the extension of commuter rail to Worcester," he said. "My legislation creating a Route 146 Citizen Advisory Committee consisting of local officials, residents of impacted neighborhoods and local businessmen, will help complete this project and bring more business and increased job opportunities to our district."

Kollios said he believes education reform involves a continuing commitment to provide quality public schools. "I've seen the best, and worst, our schools have to offer," he said. "We need less bureaucracy, incentives to continue recruiting better teachers, and adequate funding."

Kollios attended UMass, taught public school, and served on the Millbury School Committee.

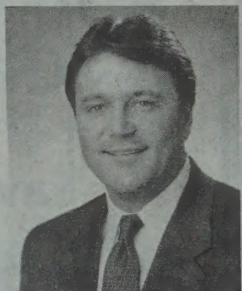

The candidate said he is "concerned that the current administration is not doing its best to find efficient ways to deliver state services. The fight for home care is a good example," he said.

"While on the Council on Aging in Millbury, I learned that home care is the least expensive and most effective way to help seniors and their working families," Kollios said. "Every year, I fight for home care to avoid costly hospital and nursing home care."

Kollios also said he is proud he fought to reform the legislature's rules. He said his efforts led to televised debates, mandatory written committee reports, printed calendars and recorded votes to authorize late-night sessions. "Now," he said, "I am working with Common Cause to reform campaign finance laws and limit the influence of lobbyists. I will continue to push for passage of this bill."

"While we are making progress stabilizing the Massachusetts economy, holding together critical services, and reforming our political process, many challenges remain," Kollios said. "I will continue the fights for more jobs, education reform, the efficient delivery of state services, and political reforms, fights that are important to the future of the citizens of Auburn, Millbury, and Oxford."

Blute Announces for Congress

SHREWSBURY - Saying that "Congress isn't working, but I will," Peter Blute has announced his candidacy for Massachusetts' Third congressional District Seat.

Blute is a 36 year old State Representative from Shrewsbury who is currently serving his third term in the Massachusetts House of Representatives.

He was first elected in 1986 when he upset an incumbent Democrat for the 11th Worcester District seat. He was the only Republican to defeat an incumbent Democrat throughout the entire state that year. In both 1988 and 1990, he ran unopposed for re-election.

One of 11 children and a lifelong resident of Massachusetts, Blute is a graduate of St. John's High School in Shrewsbury and Boston College where he was a political science major and played football.

Blute said that since being elected to the Massachusetts State Legislature, he has taken the lead in exposing the problems of the troubled Hynes Convention Center in Boston. He said legislation he filed to privatize the Convention Center has received widespread editorial praise and public support.

Blute said he exposed a major scandal at the Convention

Center owned Boston Common Parking Garage in 1990 which led to the conviction of several employees and a vote by the Convention Authority's Board to sell the garage to the private sector. He also said he has played a critical watchdog role on other state authorities such as Massport and the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Blute said he has been a leader in the effort to return fiscal responsibility to Massachusetts State Government. He has sponsored budget amendments designed to cut wasteful spending such as a $300,000 reduction in former Governor Dukakis' account for club memberships which had more than doubled over a five year period.

Blute said he was the chief sponsor of legislation which repealed a 5% sales tax on services last year. His "Blute Amendment" kept the Dukakis era tax from going into effect and, he said, protected jobs in the state's growing service industry.

Blute currently serves on the House Ways and Means Committee. He lives in Shrewsbury with his wife Robi who was recently re-elected to the Massachusetts Republican State Committee and served as a member of Governor Weld's Special Commission on the New Braintree Prison.

Blute said he pledges to work for change in the Congress of the United States with the following goals: "Restoring the American Economy, balancing the federal budget, improving our education system, reforming campaign finance law to get the special interests out of politics and keeping taxes under control."

Walsh to Challenge Early

WORCESTER - John Walsh, candidate for Congress in the Democratic primary in the Third Congressional District, has issued the following statement in announcing his candidacy:

"Today we stand at an historic juncture because of the convergence of two momentous events.

"First, we are in a prolonged economic downturn after the wasteful and unproductive binge of the 80's which saw an unprecedented, massive transfer of wealth from the poor and middle class to the very rich. This did not result from the obscure workings of a global market but from the policies of greed foisted on us by the Republican right with the complicity of a bankrupt Democratic Party leadership.

"Second, the Cold War, which for so long cast a cloud over our lives and drained our wealth, is finally over. We now have the resources to meet our needs. No longer can demands for spending on job creation, education or health care be met with the reply that we need to send our tax dollars to the Pentagon. It is as if the eve of the Great Depression and the end of World War II struck at the same instant.

"At this very turbulent moment, a host of urgent concerns has pushed to the surface, ranging from the loss of good jobs to the immiseration of the poor and people of color in our inner cities to the poisoning of our planet. However, instead of responding to this challenge, the Democratic leadership has been busily transforming the Democratic Party into a clone of the discredited party of Bush and Quayle. Because the Democratic Party has abandoned the principles for which it is supposed to stand, the voters have ceased to respect it.

"My candidacy is a challenge to the entire political establishment, both Republican and Democratic, and all it has come to stand for. I am not tied into the political machine, and I owe nothing to it. I have spent no time in the corridors of power, whether it be the Congress, the state legislature or the attorney general's office. I am not a politician or a lawyer or a businessperson, but a scientist and teacher. Alone among the candidates, I am truly an "outsider" but one with considerable experience on the critical issues facing us, ranging from national health insurance to reaping the peace dividend in a way that creates jobs. I have gained this experience over decades of work in a variety of grassroots organizations such as Physicians for Social Responsibility, Physicians for a National Health Program, SANE/Freeze and many others.

the elderly, the environment, economic growth, sportsmen, animal rights, education, and tax reduction and fairness.

He was the primary sponsor of legislation to establish the Blackstone River and Canal Heritage State Park, and serves as Chairman of the Blackstone River and Canal Commission. He also led the successful efforts at the National level to designate an area along the Blackstone River from Worcester to Pawtucket, Rhode Island, as the "Blackstone River Valley National Heritage Corridor," only the second such designation in the Nation.

In 1986, Moore organized a group of citizens from the 11 Blackstone Valley towns to sponsor a major regional event known as "Blackstone Valley Heritage Homecoming." The purpose of Heritage Homecoming is to encourage growth of regional pride and cooperation, to promote tourism in the Valley, to stimulate family and community activities, to assist local non-profit organizations to further their goals, and to raise funds for Valley-wide promotional efforts, educational programs focused on the Valley's history, scholarships and Valley beautification.

In 1982, Moore was instrumental in gaining the Valley's selection as a finalist community in the All-America Cities Competition, and he successfully coordinated the 1988 selection of the Valley as one of 10 "All-America Cities."

Moore is a member of numerous social, cultural, and civic organizations. He serves as a member of the Board of Directors of Tri-River Family Health Center, Blackstone Valley Educational Foundation (chairman 1986 to present), Blackstone Valley Heritage Homecoming, Inc. (Chairman 1985 to present) and the Massachusetts Humanities Foundation (1988 to present), and Uxbridge-Millville Housing Associates.

He is a graduate of Hopedale High School and holds a Bachelor's degree in history from Clark University and a Master's in Student Personnel Administration from Colgate University. He is a former Associate Dean of Students at Assumption College in Worcester, served as Assistant to the President and Secretary of the College Corporation of Bentley College, and he has taught History and Government at Bentley and Quinsigamond Community College. He has also taken courses in the doctoral program at Clark University and the school of Education at the University of Massachusetts at Amherst.

Moore is married to the former Joanne Bednarz of Uxbridge.

A major theme of my campaign is to take back Congress from the big money interests, the corporate lawyers and the lobbyists. To do this we need a genuine opposition party, one that speaks for and is accountable to the common man and woman instead of representing big money interests. Either the Democratic Party will change to address the new concerns of our time, or it will be swept aside and a new party will emerge to meet the people's needs. My campaign is part of the experiment of 1992 to see whether the Democratic Party can respond to this challenge. The outcome will depend on whether grassroots Democratic activists, who have been shunted aside and ignored by the Party bosses, and forward looking independents, who are fed up with insiders, will vote their convictions.

"At the moment a number of specific tasks confront us which demand that very specific positions be taken by a candidate who presents himself or herself as an agent of change.

"First, I am committed unconditionally to a woman's right to reproductive choice and to the 1992 Freedom of Choice Act. The government does not belong in the bedroom or the doctor's office.

"Second, we need to cut the nearly $300 billion annual military budget in half within two year's time in a way that creates jobs.

"How will we spend this money? In each of the two years we would make the following appropriations: Aid to Cities and Towns, $25 billion/year ($100 per resident); education, $40 billion/year ($1000 per student); health care, $5 billion/year; Environmental Protection, $30 billion/year; Reduction of Federal Deficit, $30 billion/year; Scientific Research and Development, $5 billion/year; Defense Workers' Bill of Rights, $15 billion/year.

"Two points about this program deserve mention. First, it is a job creation program on a massive scale. The Employment Research Institute of Lansing, Michigan calculates that for every $1 billion transferred from military to civilian spending, 7000 more jobs are created than are lost. Second, the Defense Workers' Bill of Rights will provide retraining and jobs to demobilized troops and defense workers. This was done at the end of WWII with the GI Bill of Rights, and it can be done again today.

"Third, we need a universal, comprehensive health insurance program modeled on the single-payer Canadian plan. I am the only candidate who supports this type of health care system. This is not socialized medicine; it is socialized insurance. It would provide coverage at a high level for everyone, and it would cost us no more than we are presently spending. By eliminating the role played by the 1500 private health insurance companies with their immense bureaucracy and waste, we would save $70 to 100 billion annually, according to the estimates of the General Accounting Office of Congress. With this saving we could insure the one quarter of our population that is uninsured or underinsured. I believe that health care is not a thing to be left to the vagaries of the marketplace and the tender mercies of the insurance companies. It is a fundamental right, one that the wealthiest nation on the planet can well afford to provide for its people.

Fourth, we need to get big money out of politics by providing public financing for all federal campaigns. At the negligible cost of $5 per taxpayer, we can guarantee that elections are under control of the people and not giant corporate entities and billionaires."

Walsh teaches at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center and has lived in the Worcester area for over 17 years. Currently a Professor of Physiology, he does biomedical research and teaches medical and graduate students. An honors graduate of both Boston College and Harvard Medical School, he served in the Public Health Service from 1972 to 1975, where he held a Naval Commission. He is a member of Physicians for a National Health Plan and co-director of Central Mass. Physicians for Social Responsibility, the U.S. affiliate of International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, which was the recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize in 1985. He also hosted a weekly public affairs discussion program on WCUW-FM.

Hanratty noted that he told Murray two weeks ago during negotiations that no money was available for renovations to that classroom. "There will be no change this year as far as I am concerned," he said.

The Committee opted to wait until estimates can be developed and possibly use a portable lab as an interim measure until a more permanent measure is financially feasible.

Murray also asked to be heard on other issues related to a lack of communication between the high school administration on scheduling issues that impact teachers who are not fully informed of their schedules for the next school year. He noted that two teachers last year had their schedules reduced to part time. As a result, they have been supplementing their income with other jobs. These teachers are now being told that their schedule is changed and they will be teaching at the end of the day rather than at the morning segment, which will impact on their second jobs. This was discussed in a memo in January and these teachers were never informed until the end of school, Murray said.

Murray also noted another instance where a teacher was notified just before school started in September of 1991 that she would be teaching a course in English. She did not have much time to prepare for the opening of school, he said. He noted that if notified earlier she could have had the summer to prepare. "There is a lack of communication which is having a serious impact on teacher morale," Murray said. "I am asking the School Committee to get more involved with these issues and to come up with some time lines and guidelines to deal with these issues and problems."

Principal Carmody responded that he tried to come up with a schedule for those special area teachers in art and industrial arts but found he couldn't do it. He said he advised the teachers of this and they indicated they would try to adapt their schedule with their other employers. He also noted that the teacher Murray referred to who was told she was to teach English right before school started has taught English before. He said it was necessary to do that as it was not until August that the final schedule for classes was firm and there was an English class that ballooned and had to be split. He also said that even though he comes to the Committee in June, there are changes that occur over the summer that require rescheduling of some students.

Murray noted that at the end of school year, some students were coming to him inquiring if they would have the schedule they wanted or whether there would be changes. He said he couldn't answer them. He also expressed some frustration as teachers have come to him with the same concerns with their schedules. "They should be going to the administration and the administration should be communicating more with them," he said. "Some teachers who are not involved know before the teachers who are impacted by the changes."

Hanratty said he empathized with the part time teachers and asked Sylvia to look into setting up a time frame.

Sylvia said he had spent some time with Murray on this issue and he was told everything that was possible would be done. He also said the scheduling at the high school is Carmody's responsibility.

Hanratty asked that Carmody and Sylvia come back to the School Committee with dates and a time frame.

Murray then announced that it was time to enforce the contract as some teachers have free periods and others do not. "All should be treated the same. It is divisive and it was a big issue last fall," he said.

Committeeman Alan Marble suggested that the problem goes deeper than one of dates and a timetable. "There is lack of communication," he said. "I agree with that.

What you are asking for is reasonable and correct. I suggest that there is a need for more interaction."

Sylvia said he didn't have anything to do with scheduling and that he had no knowledge of any changes until a week ago.

Hanratty noted that schedule changes come through right up to August and that it is something everyone has to live with. "It's a part of life," he said.

The Committee moved to executive session on a roll call vote to discuss strategy for collective bargaining.
